

In a world where sustainable crop production is paramount, the demand for high-tech, ecologically-sound greenhouses is ever increasing; a challenge Van der Hoeven is equipped to meet.

We have been designing and realising worldwide horticultural projects since 1953, projects that enable growers and investors to see maximum return on their investment. We offer cultivational support where necessary and deem after-care most important. This in part underpins our long-term relationships with our clients. That makes us proud. Every day we join forces with a large team of professionals to work on project optimisation and new system development. Always with the same objective in mind: bespoke projects for our clients

We are currently looking for a commercially-minded Designer who isn't afraid to think outside of the box.

In this position you are at the heart of a project, assuming responsibility for the budgeting of our principal international (turn-key) horticultural projects. In response to requests, you produce design drawings and cost evaluations, whilst working closely with our Sales Managers. Depending on your area of interest, you could specialise within the remit of greenhouse construction or climate-control systems. You are involved in the tendering phase, and the formulation of the contract with a conclusive cost plan. Furthermore, you ensure a smooth handover to the Engineering department.

The job profile:

You are educated to Higher Vocational Education level. Your inquisitive approach, interest in our sector and technical affinity, equips you to stamp your mark on this position. With your flexible attitude and creative mindset, you think along proactively with the client and your colleagues. You also possess excellent communication skills and good command of the English language.

Van der Hoeven is offering a varied position with leeway to use your own initiative. The organisational culture is down-to-earth, pragmatic and engaged. The position naturally goes hand in hand with an appropriate benefits package.

Does the above profile speak to you? If so, please send your application letter and CV to Heleen van der Vaart, HR: h.vandervaart@vanderhoeven.nl.
